

FRIDAY EVENING, JUNE 12.

AS TO JUGGLERS-AT-LAW. The Court of Appeals of the State has taken emphatic notice of the dilatory moglers-at-law in the way of the execution of justly condemned murderers. The matter is taken up in connection with the decision lately rendered in the Justino appeal. After pronouncing upon the eminent soundness of the proceedings and conviction in this case, and the lack of any Chande C. Marse. reason for the appeal, beyond the desire to delay the execution, the Court says: The anbacquent proceedings in the case on behalf of the defendant have been discredia- lists to ble to the administration of justice. His case Daily F and T who end I, Roshing been twice to the Supreme Court of the Elbert, Study and Francis.
